CJI 2018 GENERAL GRANTS

CJI grantees challenge mass incarceration by funding impacted community organizers to affect meaningful, substantial, and enforceable systemic change. Building skills, connections, and local leadership, CJI grantees work to dismantle the social conditions that support mass incarceration, and provide a critical foundation for national resistance movements. Virtually all grantee groups are led by formerly incarcerated people and people of color, and all work in coalition with other grassroots efforts. In fact, our grantees embrace cross-issue and cross-community organizing to such a degree that it is impossible to list them by a single issue-area or constituency. In addition to the topic-areas listed, please note the number of grantees that include an emphasis on youth development and leadership; the plethora of cross-community efforts focused on immigration reform and law enforcement accountability; and the wealth of groups that include a decarceration component. Also, please note the geographic diversity of our grantees.
